has successfully completed the online Specialization

Generative AI for Executives and Business Leaders

Individuals who completed this specialization demonstrated an ability to generalize and adapt generative AI applications from multiple business areas to their area of business expertise. They can write effective genAI prompts to use the AI as a brainstorming tool and think critically and reflectively to evaluate the validity of its output. They demonstrated capabilities to formulate plausible AI integration use cases strategically suited to their own business context. They acknowledge the risks involved with genAI use and can relate the necessity of compliance with regulations, and mitigating those risks through governance, and ethics to their business area or industry.
